Are You Happy With Your Job?

To Take Pride in your work is the pleasure or satisfaction taken in the achievement of doing something with excellence; this will give you Enjoyment in everything you do.

To be Prideful in your work is thinking things are below your status or education, thus giving no enjoyment in anything you do.

It isn't our position but our disposition which makes us happy.

In this New Economy, it could seem like you are doing things that you used to do when you were first starting out; and you might be thinking, "I am better than this and I shouldn't have to go through this again".

When we do something with excellence, even washing the bathroom floor can be enjoyable. It is not the task that brings enjoyment; it is the joy of doing the task with excellence that brings enjoyment.

So, when we think that the task is going to bring enjoyment, we are in for a big let-down, because a task is a task. However when we treat each task as a personal challenge, no matter how menial it may seem, we still do it to the very best of our ability, like a competition with ourselves to win; then it becomes enjoyable.
